

The goal of space planning is to create efficiency.

Space planning includes blocking out interior spatial areas, defining circulation patterns, and developing plans for furniture layout and equipment placement.

How people actually, through observation of their physical behaviors, use their spaces.