

Components of blood

Components of blood

Whole blood has two components: (1) blood plasma, a watery liquid extracellular matrix that contains dissolved substances, and (2) formed elements, which are cells and cell fragments

